Nationwide Property And Casualty Ins. Co. v. Castaneda and CastanedaNo. 2020 CV 12168 CV*Civil Action - Declaratory Judgment / Judgment on the Pleadings – Automobile Insurance Coverage – Unlicensed Driver Exclusion

The Court granted the Automobile Insurer's motion for judgment on the pleadings and declared that it was not obligated to provide first party medical benefits to the Defendant Driver because she was unlicensed at the time of the accident. The automobile policy excluded unlicensed drivers from first party medical benefits. The Court rejected the Defendants argument that the Unlicensed Driver Exclusion was not enforceable under the Pennsylvania Motor Vehicle Financial Responsibility Law (MVFRL) and public policy.

1. Defendant Driver suffered serious injuries when the vehicle she was driving, owned by her mother the Policyholder, was rear-ended by another vehicle. The Driver was operating the vehicle with her mother's permission but was unlicensed. Under the Policy, a person driving with the permission of the Policyholder is generally covered under the Policy, including for first party medical expense benefits.
2. The Insurer denied the claim, however, under an Unlicensed Driver Exclusion in the First Party Benefits provision of the Policy. The exclusion applied to a person who operated a vehicle "without a reasonable belief of being entitled to do so," which explicitly included where "the person's license has been suspended, revoked, or never issued." The plain, unambiguous language of the Unlicensed Driver Exclusion applied, and excluded the Driver's claim.
3. The Court rejected the Driver's argument that the Exclusion violated the MVFRL statutory scheme because it was not specifically included in the list of permissible policy exclusions. The Court further held found that the Driver failed to meet her heavy burden of showing that the Unlicensed Driver Exclusion was void as against public policy. While a core goal of the MVFRL is to provide tort victims with compensation for their injuries, other legitimate goals weighed in favor of the Exclusion, including cost containment and road safety. Given these competing goals, the Exclusion could not be considered as obviously against public policy.

OPINION

In this matter, the Automobile Insurer seeks that this Court grant judgment in its favor and issue a decree finding that it is not obligated, under an Automobile Policy issued to its Policyholder, to provide first party medical benefits to the Policyholder's daughter because she was an unlicensed driver driving her mother's vehicle at the time of the accident. The Driver, who has filed a counterclaim on her own behalf and on behalf of a putative class of similarly situated drivers, seeks partial summary judgment declaring that the Insurer's denial of first party medical benefits under the Policy's "Unlicensed Driver Exclusion" is void as against public policy. The Driver additionally seeks, on her own behalf and on behalf of the putative class, compensatory relief in the form of first party benefits, interest, attorneys' fees, costs and treble damages. For the reasons set forth below, this Court finds that the Insurer is not obligated to pay first party medical benefits to the Driver and thus grants judgment in favor of the Insurer and dismisses the Driver's claims.

Background

The parties agree to the following facts as set forth in the pleadings: Defendant Cristina Castaneda ("Cristina" or "Driver") suffered serious injuries in a motor vehicle accident when the vehicle she was driving was rear-ended by another vehicle. The accident occurred on January 15, 2019, in Gap, Pa. At the time of the accident, the Driver was operating a 2002 Toyota Sienna owned by her mother, nominal Defendant Elvia Castaneda ("Elvia" or "Policyholder"), who resided in Avondale, Pa. The Driver was operating the vehicle with her mother Elvia's permission. Elvia was a passenger in the vehicle at the time of the accident.

The Sienna was covered by a Personal Auto Policy issued to Elvia as the Policyholder by Plaintiff Nationwide Property and Casualty Insurance Company ("Nationwide" or "Insurer"). At the time of the accident, Cristina was not licensed to operate a motor vehicle by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. Furthermore, Cristina did not regularly reside at her mother's primary residence in Avondale. Finally, Cristina was not the named insured on any policy providing first party benefits coverage; nor was she an insured on any policy other than the Policy providing first party benefits coverage.

The Driver submitted a claim to Nationwide under the terms of her mother's Policy seeking first party medical benefits as a result of her injuries, which provided $10,000 in first party medical expense benefits. Under the Policy, a person driving with the permission of the Policyholder is covered under the Policy, including for first party medical expense benefits. Nationwide denied her claim on February 7, 2019. The sole basis for Nationwide's denial was under Policy Exclusion 14, located in the "First Party Benefits" provision of the Policy, which states in relevant part:

Coverage exclusions

We will not pay First Party Benefits in certain circumstances, as follows:

14. There is no coverage from the use of any motor vehicle which any insured:

- a) uses without a reasonable belief of being entitled to do so;
- b) has stolen; or
- c) knows to have been stolen.

An insured shall not be held to have a reasonable belief of being entitled to operate a motor vehicle if that person's license has been suspended, revoked, or never issued.

This exclusion does not apply to the use of your auto by:

- a) you;
- b) a relative; or
- c) a business partner, employee, or agent of you or a relative.

(Complaint, Exbt. A (bolding in original)) "Relative" is defined in the exclusions section of the Policy to be "a natural person who regularly resides in your household and who is related to you by blood, marriage, or adoption" Id. Because the Driver Cristina Castaneda did not regularly reside with her mother, she was not considered a “relative” under the Policy. As such, Nationwide believed the exclusion of first party benefits for unlicensed drivers applied to the Driver under the plain language of the Policy and it denied her claim.

On July 3, 2019, Nationwide initiated this action by filing a Complaint requesting a judgment declaring that Policy Exclusion 14 is valid and enforceable under the Pennsylvania Motor Vehicle Financial Responsibility Law (“MVFRL”) and public policy, such that its denial of first party medical benefits to the Driver was proper. On August 15, 2019, Defendants Cristina and Elvia Castaneda filed an Answer with New Matter, which also included a Class-Action Counterclaim by Cristina. Cristina, individually, and on behalf of a putative class, requested a judgment declaring that Nationwide’s denial of claims for first party benefits under the Unlicensed Driver Exclusion set forth Policy Exclusion 14 violated the MVFRL and was improper. She also sought compensatory relief in the form of first party benefits, interest, attorneys’ fees, costs, and treble damages. Specifically, the Driver argued that she and the putative class were entitled to fees and interest under MVFRL Section 1797(b) because Nationwide had unreasonably denied her claim for first party medical benefits. The Driver similarly sought attorneys’ fees and treble damages under MVFRL Sections 1716 and 1797(b) for the Nationwide’s alleged “unreasonable” or “wanton” conduct in denying benefits under the Unlicensed Driver Exclusion.

Thereafter, Nationwide filed a motion for judgment on the pleadings and Cristina filed a motion for partial summary judgment. After a period of inactivity by both parties, the action was pursued and assigned to this Court for oral argument and final disposition.

Legal Discussion

For the reasons that follow, this Court agrees with Nationwide that it is entitled to judgment on the pleadings because it properly denied benefits to the Driver under the Unlicensed Driver Exclusion, which this Court finds to be valid and enforceable. Pennsylvania Rule of Civil Procedure 1034 permits any party to move for judgment on the pleadings after the relevant pleadings close. Pa.R.C.P. 1034(a). A motion for judgment on the pleadings should be granted where the pleadings and exhibits attached thereto demonstrate that no genuine issue of fact exists, and the moving party is entitled to judgment as a matter of law. Wachovia Bank, NA, v. Ferretti, 935 A.2d 565, 570 (Pa. Super. 2007). In considering the pleadings, courts “must accept as true all well-pleaded facts of the party against whom the motion is made, while considering against him ... those facts which he specifically admits.” Brink v. Erie Ins. Group, 940 A.2d 528, 531 (Pa. Super. 2008).

The plain language of Policy Exclusion 14 excludes first party losses arising from the use of a motor vehicle that an insured uses without a reasonable belief of being entitled to do so, which explicitly includes use by an operator who is unlicensed (stating that “[a]n insured shall not be held to have a reasonable belief of being entitled to operate a motor vehicle if that person’s license ... [was] never issued”). The Policy thus expressly and unambiguously provides that the Driver could not have had a reasonable belief that she was entitled to operate the 2002 Toyota Sienna at the time of the accident and her driving the vehicle fell squarely within the scope of the Unlicensed Driver Exclusion.

The Driver argues that the Unlicensed Driver Exclusion, which prevents unlicensed operators from recovering first party medical expense benefits, is neither contemplated nor authorized by the MVFRL. She argues that medical expense coverage is mandated by the MVFRL and cannot be waived. Further, there are only certain, limited circumstances where an insurer may exclude persons from this mandatory coverage and that being an unlicensed operator is not one of the permissible exclusions. In addition, the Driver asserts that the exclusion does not promote the goals of the MVFRL including cost savings, claiming that the exclusion bears no rational relationship to premium payments; that is, invalidating the exclusion will not allow persons to obtain a "free ride" since premiums were paid for first party medical expense coverage. The exclusion, according to the Driver, does nothing more than render a windfall to Nationwide, allowing it to collect premiums for coverage which it then illegally withholds.

The Driver specifically raises two arguments in support of her opposition to the Insurer's motion for judgment on the pleadings. First, she claims that the Unlicensed Driver Exclusion violates the statutory scheme set forth in the MVFRL, and of Section 1718 in particular. Second, she claims the Exclusion is void as contrary to public policy.

Regarding her first claim, the Driver argues that the MVFRL establishes a mandatory and comprehensive system for payment of first party medical expense coverage, including § 1711(a) and (b) (requiring insurers to include medical benefit coverage), § 1712(1) (defining medical benefit), § 1713(a)(1) (setting forth sources of payment of first party benefits), §1714 (identifying certain ineligible claimants), and §1718(a)-(c) (identifying persons who may be excluded from benefits). Section 1718 (Policy Exclusions) specifically provides:

(a) General rule. - An insurer shall exclude from benefits any insured, or his personal representative, under a policy enumerated in section 1711 (relating to required benefits) or 1712 (relating to availability of benefits), when the conduct of the insured contributed to the injury sustained by the insured in any of the following ways:

- (1) While intentionally injuring himself or another or attempting to intentionally injure himself or another.
- (2) While committing a felony.
- (3) While seeking to elude lawful apprehension or arrest by a law enforcement official.

(b) Conversion of vehicle. - A person who knowingly converts a motor vehicle is ineligible to receive first party benefits from any source other than a policy of insurance under which he is an insured for any injury arising out of the maintenance or use of the converted vehicle.

(c) Named driver exclusion. - An insurer or the first named insured may exclude any person or his personal representative from benefits under a policy enumerated in section 1711 or 1712 when any of the following apply:

- (1) The person is excluded from coverage while operating a motor vehicle in accordance with the act of June 5, 1968 (P.L. 140,

Nationwide Property And Casualty Insurance Company v. Elvia Castaneda and, Christina Tapia Castaneda

- No. 78), relating to the writing, cancellation of or refusal to renew policies of automobile insurance.
- (2) The first named insured has requested that the person be excluded from coverage while operating a motor vehicle. This paragraph shall only apply if the excluded person is insured on another policy of motor vehicle liability insurance.

75 Pa.C.S.A. §1718.

The Driver argues that under this mandatory system for payment of first party medical expense coverage, that only in particular circumstances may persons be excluded from this mandatory coverage scheme and that denial of coverage to an unlicensed operator is not one of the permissible exclusions, i.e. exclusions must be explicitly included in the statutory scheme to be valid and because unlicensed drivers, otherwise insured under a policy, have not been statutorily excluded under the MVFRL, they cannot be excluded by an insurer. This Court disagrees.

Nationwide accurately points out that Section 1718 does not contain an exhaustive list of permitted first party benefit exclusions. Rather, it identifies a number of circumstances where an insurer shall exclude benefits, and a process by which an insurer or insured can limit specific individuals from receiving those benefits. Our Superior Court has explicitly recognized this proposition, stating “that the MVFRL does not contain an exhaustive list of permissible coverage exclusions.” Nationwide Mut. Ins. Co. v. Cummings, 652 A.2d 1338, 1342 (Pa. Super. 1994) (citing Marino v. General Acc. Ins. Co., 610 A.2d 477 (Pa. Super. 1992)).

Specifically, Pennsylvania courts have routinely upheld a variety of first party benefit exclusions that are not specifically set out in other parts of the MVFRL. In Byoung Suk An v. Victoria Fire & Cas. Co., 113 A.3d 1283 (Pa. Super. 2015), the court upheld a "named driver only" policy that provided coverage only for the driver named on the policy itself. The party seeking benefits argued, among other things, that the named driver policy "impermissibly expands the legislature's exclusion outlined in section 1718(c) to include 'any person not listed as an insured on your policy' without requiring that the first named insured request that the person be excluded from coverage, or a determination as to whether the excluded person is insured on another policy of motor vehicle liability insurance." Id. at 1288. In rejecting that argument, the court concluded that the "named driver exclusion provision contemplated by Section 1718(c) and 'named driver only' policies are completely different creatures," and the limitation created by the named driver only policy did not contradict Section 1718. Id. at 1290.

In Brosovic v. Nationwide Mut. Ins., 841 A.2d 1071 (Pa. Super. 2004), the Superior Court upheld a "use for hire" exclusion in denying first party income loss benefits under a personal automobile policy to an individual who was injured while lifting a box into a van. The policy excluded from coverage “use by an insured of any vehicle to carry persons or property for a fee.” Id. at 1072. The court ultimately determined that the exclusionary language unambiguously excluded coverage for the plaintiff's income loss claim, which was despite the fact that neither Section 1718 nor Section 1714 expressly provide for a "use for hire" limitation. See also Huber v. Erie Ins. Exch., 587 A.2d 333 (Pa. Super. 1991) (upholding first party benefits exclusion for injuries sustained while loading or unloading motor vehicle, except while occupying the vehicle).

As Nationwide accurately explains, Section 1718 is very much like other parts of the MVFRL that include non-exhaustive lists of exclusions. For example, in Marino v. General Acc. Ins. Co., supra, the Superior Court upheld an uninsured/underinsured motorist ("UM/UIM") coverage exclusion for vehicles operated to transport persons or goods for a fee, despite the fact that Section 1731(d) of the MVFRL included two limitations on the recovery of UM/UIM benefits. See 75 Pa. C.S.A. § 1731(d) (limiting the right to recover both UM and UIM benefits, and limiting the right to recover either benefit where a person is "precluded from maintaining an action for noneconomic damages under section 1705 (relating to election of tort options)"). See also Nationwide Mut. Ins. Co. v. Cummings, supra (allowing non-permissive use exclusion in UM/UIM context even though no expressed statutory authority for such an exclusion exists); St. Paul Mercury Ins. Co. v. Corbett, 630 A.2d 28 (Pa. Super. 1993) (policy benefit limiting UM coverage to antique automobile activities was not contrary to MVFRL or public policy).

As the Superior Court explained in Marino, the MVFRL does not include a list of permissible exclusions for UM/UIM coverages, unlike its predecessor statute, the Uninsured Motorists Act ("UMA"), 40 P.S. § 2000 (repealed). The primary difference between the two laws was that the UMA specifically provided a list of circumstances to which "[t]he coverage required by this section does not apply," id. § 2000(e), which combined with the then-public policy of liberally construing the UMA "so that innocent victims will be protected from uninsured drivers." Nationwide Mut. Ins. Co. v. Swisher, 731 F. Supp. 691, 694-95 (E.D. Pa. 1989).

Here, Section 1718 does not purport to create a list of permissible exclusions, as was the case with Section 2000(e) of the UMA. Moreover, cost containment is a clear public policy of the MVFRL, which is served by allowing exclusions beyond those set out in Section 1718. As a result, this Court agrees with Nationwide that Section 1718 does not preclude an insurer from excluding those benefits for additional reasons.

This Court also finds that the Driver's assertion that the Unlicensed Driver Exclusion is void as against public policy not supported by the law. Recently, our Supreme Court addressed a public policy attack upon an unlisted resident driver exclusion, finding it valid and enforceable. Safe Auto Ins. Co. v. Oriental-Guillermo, 214 A.3d 1257 (Pa. 2019). The Court there noted that "a party seeking to void an unambiguous provision in an insurance contract on public policy grounds bears a heavy burden, and that a determination of public policy must be based on the law, not simply on general considerations of supposed public interest." Id. at 1266. Furthermore,

... In the absence of a plain indication of that policy through long governmental practice or statutory enactments, or of violations of obvious ethical or moral standards, the Court should not assume to declare contracts ... contrary to public policy. The courts must be content to await legislative action.

This Court has further elaborated that:

It is only when a given policy is so obviously for or against the public health, safety, morals or welfare that there is a virtual unanimity of opinion in regard to it, that a court may constitute itself the voice of the community in so declaring [that the contract is against public policy].

Williams v. GEICO Gov't Emps. Ins. Co., 32 A.3d 1195, 1200 (Pa. 2011) (citation omitted). See also Permanent General Insurance Corporation of Ohio v. McDevitt, 2020 WL 1329657 (E.D. Pa. 2020) (in assessing the validity of an Unlicensed Driver Exclusion under Pennsylvania law, the court noted that in order to invalidate the exclusion as being contrary to public policy, the public policy upon which litigant relies must be clearly expressed; i.e. it must be capable of being ascertained by reference to laws and legal precedents, or plainly identifiable by long government practice or statutory enactments or obvious ethical or moral standards).

The Third Circuit recently addressed the same issue presented here and held that the insurer's Unlicensed Driver Exclusion was not void as against public policy. Duncan v. Omni Ins. Co., 719 Fed. Appx. 102 (3d Cir. 2017). There, an unlicensed operator of the insured's motor vehicle struck a commuter bus which resulted in injuries to bus passenger. In analyzing the public policy argument, the Court acknowledged that one of the of the core goals of the MVFRL is to provide tort victims with compensation for their injuries. Id. at 105 (citations omitted). However, the Court noted that other policy goals behind the MVFRL's insurance and driver's license requirements include "the goal of cost containment" and "the licensing requirements [that] can reasonably be attributed at least in part to goals of road safety ..." It further stated that "the goals of cost containment and road safety appear to cut in the opposite direction, in support of court enforcement of [the insurer's] policy exclusion: if the law were to prohibit the company from excluding from its policies any liability for accidents caused by unlicensed drivers, the cost of insurance would go up, and car owners would have one fewer disincentive to lending their car to unlicensed friends and family, perhaps making roads a bit less safe." Id. at 105. This Court finds the Duncan decision persuasive.

The Eastern District Court reached a similar result in Permanent Gen. Ins. Corp. of Ohio v. McDevitt, supra. There, the court ruled in favor of the insurer which sought a declaratory judgment that it was not obligated to provide coverage for the named insured and an unlicensed driver related to a motor vehicle collision. The policy contained an Unlicensed Driver Exclusion, which the court held valid and not in contravention of public policy. Id. at *4 (citing Duncan v. Omni Ins. Co.). The court ruled that the insurer had no duty to defend or indemnify the named insured or the unlicensed driver. See also Lewandowski v. Nationwide Mut. Ins. Co., No. 18-1441, 2019 WL 7037587 at *1 (W.D. Pa. Dec. 20, 2019) (where the vehicle owner permitted her boyfriend to borrow her vehicle, unaware he had recently had his license suspended, the court held the insurer properly denied coverage arising from the boyfriend's operation of the vehicle for property and personal injuries under the policy's Unlicensed Driver Exclusion; the court explained that "[t]he exclusion, as written, plainly states that coverage for auto liability excludes 'any motor vehicle which any insured ... uses without a reasonable belief of being entitled to do so,' and 'an insured shall not be held to have a reasonable belief of being entitled to operate a motor vehicle if that person's license has been suspended, revoked, or never issued'") (italics in original).

The Driver here has failed to identify any Pennsylvania law supporting the conclusion that it is in the interest of public policy to require an insurer to extend coverage to unlicensed drivers who are not otherwise insured, but are permissively operating vehicles owned by the insurer's policyholders. This Court agrees with Nationwide that such a conclusion would be contrary not only to the cost-containment policy considerations underlying the MVFRL (see Oriental-Guillermo at 1266-1268, where the Court reaffirmed longstanding Pennsylvania law that "cost containment" remains an important policy consideration in evaluating the scope of insurance contracts), but more importantly, to Pennsylvania law and policy against operating a motor vehicle without a license. See 75 Pa. C.S.A. § 1574(a) ("No person shall authorize or permit a motor vehicle owned by him or under his control to be driven upon any highway by any person who is not authorized under this chapter or who is not licensed for the type or class of vehicle to be driven") and (b) (anyone violating section (a) is "guilty of a summary offense and shall be jointly and severally liable with the driver for any damages caused by the negligence of such driver in operating the vehicle"); see also Oriental-Guillermo, supra (public policy does not require insurers to extend coverage to any person who may be driving an insured vehicle, and re-affirming well-established Pennsylvania law that "an insured is not entitled to receive gratis coverage"); Northern Ins. Co. v. Schneck, 813 A.2d 828 (Pa. 2002) (upholding named-driver exclusion of husband on wife's policy, resulting in no liability or UM/UIM coverage for the couple's injured minor children); and Nationwide Mut. Ins. Co. v. Cummings, 652 A.2d 1338 (Pa. Super. 1994), appeal denied, 659 A.2d 988 (Pa. 1995) (upholding non-permissive use exclusion to bar claim by innocent injured passenger; exclusion did not violate the legislative intent behind the MVFRL).

Where, as here, the Unlicensed Driver Exclusion is clear and unambiguous, the Driver could not have had an expectation of coverage because she was aware she did not have a license to drive a vehicle, and she indisputably did not contract or pay for such coverage. As such, the Driver has failed to demonstrate that Policy Exclusion 14 is void as against public policy, particularly given the competing policy considerations at issue. See Williams v. GEICO Gov't Emps. Ins. Co., supra ("only when a given policy is so obviously for or against the public health, safety, morals or welfare that there is a virtual unanimity of opinion in regard to it, that a court may constitute itself the voice of the community in so declaring [it against public policy]").

In conclusion, this Court agrees with Nationwide that there is no dispute that its denial of first party medical benefits to the Driver falls within the unambiguous scope of Unlicensed Driver Exclusion set forth in Policy Exclusion 14. Furthermore, this Court finds that MVFRL Section 1718 does not create an exhaustive list of reasons an insurer may cite to exclude first party medical benefits but is rather only one pronouncement of a number of permissible exclusions found in the MVFRL and common law. Finally, the Unlicensed Driver Exclusion also does not violate the public policy of this Commonwealth, which is embodied by the MVFRL and court decisions interpreting its application.

Because this Court is granting judgment in Nationwide's favor, this Court need not address the Driver's counterclaim requesting attorneys' fees, interest and treble damages under MVFRL Sections 1716 and 1797(b), which rely upon a finding that the Driver has a valid claim under the Policy for first party medical benefits.

Accordingly, this Court enters the following:

ORDER

AND NOW, this 14th day of July 2022, it is hereby DIRECTED that Nationwide Property and Casualty Insurance Company's Motion for Judgment on the Pleadings, is GRANTED as follows: JUDGMENT is entered in favor of Nationwide Property and Casualty Insurance Company. This Court declares that the Unlicensed Driver Exclusion set forth in Policy Exclusion 14 is valid and enforceable under the Pennsylvania Motor Vehicle Financial Responsibility Act and public policy. This Court further directs that the Motion for Partial Summary Judgment filed by Counterclaimant Cristina Castaneda, individually and on behalf of a putative class, is DENIED, and the Counterclaim DISMISSED, with prejudice.
