Child Support – Earning Capacity – Waitress
Perquisites – Company Vehicle

1. This child support matter was before the Court on a Request for Hearing DeNovo.
2. The issues before the Court were 1) whether Mother, who works as a waitress, should be held to an earnings capacity greater than her actual earnings as reported at the conference level, and 2) whether Father's earnings should be re-calculated to include the value of the personal use of a company vehicle as a perquisite.
3. The Court found no credible reason to deviate from the guidelines in calculating the respective income of the parties.

OPINION

This matter is before the Court on a Request for Hearing DeNovo by Defendant/Petitioner, Robert L. Null ("Father") from a Child Support Court Order entered on June 13, 2013. Plaintiff/Respondent is Ashley P. Null ("Mother"). A hearing was held on September 4, 2013. This Opinion follows.

FACTUAL BACKGROUND AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

The parties entered a joint stipulation of facts. The stipulation is incorporated by reference. Specific facts relevant to the procedural background are highlighted as follows. Father and Mother were formerly husband and wife having been divorced on June 18, 2008. The parties are the parents of two minor children, I.M.N., born in 2001, age 12 and J.R.N., born in 2003, age 10. An initial Final Order of Court for Child Support was entered on August 15, 2008 following a support conference.

Mother filed a Petition to Modify the Support Order on or about April 26, 2013. The parties appeared for a support conference on June 13, 2013, whereupon a Modified Order for Support was entered. Father filed a simultaneous Demand for a Hearing De Novo and Petition to Schedule Special Hearing on July 3, 2013. A Special Support Hearing was scheduled before this Court on September 4, 2013. At the time set for hearing, both parties appeared, represented by counsel and provided evidence in support of their positions. Upon review of the credible evidence presented and the applicable law, this matter is now ripe for disposition.

STANDARD OF REVIEW

After a support conference with a conference officer, a party to a support proceeding may file a demand for a hearing de novo before the court. Pa. R.C.P. 1910-11. If such demand is timely filed, the hearing de novo shall be scheduled by the domestic relations section and notice shall be given to the parties. Pa. R.C.P. 1910-11(f)-(j). Promptly after receipt of notice of a scheduled hearing, a party may move the court for a separate listing where there are complex questions of law, fact, or both. Pa. R.C.P. 1910-11(j)(1)(i). The court's review standard in a hearing de novo is "full consideration of the case anew. The reviewing body is in effect substituted for the prior decision maker and re-decides the case." Rebert v. Rebert, 757 A.2d 981, 984 (Pa. Super. 2000). The hearing judge has the best opportunity to decide the facts since he observes the witnesses and can best pass on their credibility, and his findings on credibility should not be reversed unless there is a capricious disregard of competent evidence. D'Arciprete v. D'Arciprete, 470 A.2d 995, 997 (Pa. Super. 1984).

ISSUES PRESENTED

4. Should Mother be held to an earnings capacity greater than her actual earnings as reported at the conference level?
5. Should Father's earnings be re-calculated to include the value of the personal use of a company vehicle as a perquisite?

DISCUSSION

Pennsylvania Statutory Law and Rules of Civil Procedure outline the procedure through which support obligations are determined. Generally, the amount of support awarded is based upon the parties' net income. Pa. R.C.P. 1910.16-2. Statutory law dictates that an individual is required to notify the appropriate parties if there is any material change in circumstances relevant to the level of support or administration of the support order including but not limited to change in employment. 23 Pa. C.S.A. § 4353. Once the support order is in effect, a petition for modification may be filed at any time and shall be granted if the requesting party demonstrates a substantial change in circumstances. Backall v. Gelman, 77 Bucks Co. L. Rep. 147 (C.C.P.). If a party's income substantially changes, the support order can be adjusted to reflect those changes. Pa. R.C.P. 1910.16-2(d)(2). However, "when either party voluntarily assumes a lower paying job, quits a job, leaves employment, changes occupations or changes employment status to pursue an education, or is fired for cause, there generally will be no effect on the support obligation." Pa. R.C.P. 1910.16-2(d)(1).

A person's earning capacity is the amount that the person can realistically earn under the circumstances, considering his or her health, age, mental and physical condition, and training. Anzalone v. Anzalone, 449 Pa. Super 201, 673 A.2d 377 (1996). Parents have a duty to support their minor children, and that duty is such that it is the equal responsibility of both parents to support their children, with the extent of their obligation determined by their earning capacity and ability to pay. Reinert v. Reinert, 926 A. 2d 539 (Pa. Super. 2007); Mencer v. Ruche, 928 A.2d 294 (Pa. Super. 2007); D.H. v. R.H., 900 A.2d 922 (Pa. Super. 2006). An earning capacity may be imputed to a party in specific circumstances:

"If the trier of fact determines that a party to a support action has willfully failed to obtain or maintain appropriate employment, the trier of fact may impute to that party an income equal to the party's earning capacity. Age, education, training, health, work experience, earnings history and child care responsibilities are factors which shall be considered in determining earning capacity...Determination of what constitutes a reasonable work regimen depends upon all relevant circumstances including the choice of jobs available within a particular occupation, working hours, working conditions and whether a party has exerted substantial good faith efforts to find employment." Pa R.C.P. 1910.16-2(d)(4).

In the present matter, Mother is a waitress at the Corner Stable, a restaurant located in York County. Mother has been employed there for the past twenty (20) years. Mother presently works approximately 25-30 hours per week. Generally, Mother works Mondays and Tuesdays from 9:00 a.m. until 4:00 p.m. and Wednesday through Friday from 9:00 a.m. until 2:30 p.m. Mother's hourly rate is $5.15; however, Mother collects tips in addition to her hourly rate at approximately $275.00 per week, which the Court finds credible. Mother is only required to report 8% of her tips for tax purposes.

Father alleges that Mother should be held to a full-time earning capacity of forty (40) hours per week. Father also alleges that Mother is earning additional income from tips or other sources which she is not reporting. Based upon the credible evidence presented, the Court finds that it is appropriate to impute an earning capacity to Mother based upon the high end of her average work week, thirty (30) hours, which this Court finds is appropriate based upon her current work schedule and the credible evidence presented. Mother's actual earnings fluctuate as she so credibly testified. The Court also found Mother credible in her testimony regarding her job flexibility. While Mother provides the children with afterschool care, eliminating the need for paid daycare, the children are ten (10) and twelve (12) years old. Mother has not worked greater than thirty (30) hours a week for several years, and at this juncture, the Court is not inclined to hold her to greater than thirty (30) hours per week. Therefore, the Court will direct that Mother be held to an earning capacity of thirty (30) hours per week at $5.15 per hour plus $275.00 per week in tips which this Court finds is a more accurate depiction of her actual earnings than found at the conference level, based upon the credible evidence presented.

Mother asserts that Father's private use of a company-issued vehicle constitutes a perquisite includable in support as it reduces Father's expenses. Father testified that he presently drives a 2011 Chevy Silverado Truck supplied by his employer, Eastern Waterproofing. Father testified that his employer pays for his gas, repairs, and car insurance. Father also candidly testified that he has an agreement with his employer to drive the vehicle for limited personal purposes, which the Court finds credible. Father agreed that the vehicle would likely cost him approximately $300.00 per month to lease. Considering all of the credible evidence presented, the Court finds that the use of this vehicle should be considered as a perquisite to Father includable in support in the amount of $300.00 per month.

In consideration of Father's request for a deviation from his present support obligation, the Court does not believe Father presented sufficient evidence to warrant such deviation. Both parties had a substantial increase in their respective incomes since the initial Order in 2008. Mother and Father each have a duty to support their minor children, and that duty is such that it is the equal responsibility of both parents to support their children, with the extent of their obligation determined by their earning capacity and ability to pay. The Court finds no credible reason to deviate from the guidelines in calculating the respective income of the parties.

CONCLUSION

Therefore, for the reasons stated herein, Mother's income shall be calculated at a rate of 30 hours per week at $5.15 per hour plus $275.00 per week in tips. Father's income shall be re-calculated to consider an additional $300.00 per month to reflect the personal use of his employer's vehicle. The Domestic Relations Section is hereby Directed to enter an Order for Support consistent with these findings contemporaneously with the filing of this Opinion.

ANDREA MARCECA STRONG, JUDGE
